METEORSCATTER - NEXT MS-SHOWER:
Arietids and Zeta-Perseids in begin of June First a short review to the Eta-Aquarids with its peak later than excpected on 6th of may (a ZHR at 74!). Have a look at at our MMM
MS-Propagationpage: http://www.mmmonvhf.de/ms.php
We have to come now to a periode of the daylight meteorshowers.
From up begin of may there are several minor MS-showers which are potential enough to give some good reflection rate for playing our ms-hobby again. Specially in the Southern Hemisphere the coming showers shall be great! The new MS-Shower PEAKS (Arietids and Z-Perseids) are updated and shown as well at our MS-Propagationpage

SPORADIC E - first and (sorry) "false alarm"...
As you already have noticed MMMonVHF will be now repsoncable for the SUMMARIES of SPORADIC E openings at: http://www.mmmonvhf.de/es.php
We have had situation that there was a big tropo opening from EA/CT to EI/G around 5th of may and some logs arrived showing is as ES.
Of course we was happy about the logs but after checking it more in precise we found out it was a false alarm. So we did take out the first
"hurra" and placed it under our "TROPO Section". It was a good test for the Team and as well our log inputs. All worked very well - congrats to the people around that section getting in up within 3 weeks time!
So, who will be the first station reporting us a SPORADIC E QSO 2008?
